MMSF Instrumental Fellowships: Harp Fellowship

The Philharmonia Orchestra's Harp Fellowship Programme is designed to support the development of talented orchestral instrumentalists at the beginning of their career. The programme has been designed not only to support their musical development, but also to provide them with an awareness of how an orchestra runs and their role within it.

The Philharmonia is dedicated to diversifying our audiences, programmes and workforce. We welcome and encourage applicants from backgrounds that are currently underrepresented in orchestras and actively invite applicants to declare their underrepresented characteristics on their application form.

Timeline for Harp Fellowship

For details of application opening and closing dates, please visit our webpage here. For more information please email emergingartists@philharmonia.co.uk.

There is one Fellowship available. The content of the two-year programme will be tailored to meet the individual needs and development rates of the artists, but will include:

Grant

Each recipient receives a grant towards their studies and in acknowledgement of any travel costs associated with participating in this programme. This is awarded annually.

Mentorship

In addition to the Philharmonia's Director of Learning & Engagement, each recipient is paired with a Philharmonia player to offer them structured feedback, advice and guidance throughout their Fellowship, ensuring that they are welcomed to the Orchestra and receive a constructive and positive assessment of their performance and progress.

Masterclass and seminar programme

During the two-year programme, recipients have access to a range of masterclasses and seminars on relevant topics related to working in the orchestral sector, including:

- Orchestral repertoire coaching and preparing extracts
- Orchestral etiquette advice
- Careers advice
- Mock auditions and feedback afterwards
- Coaching prior to auditions

Philharmonia

Sit-in scheme

Each recipient will be offered the opportunity to sit-in on carefully selected rehearsals with our Principal Harpist, weighted predominantly to the first year of the two-year programme.

Work experience: education and outreach

As part of their Fellowship, the recipients are offered paid project work with the Learning & Engagement department, providing them with invaluable training within learning and participation settings – an increasingly important skill for the 21st century orchestral musician.

Performance opportunities

During their Fellowship, recipients can take advantage of chamber and solo performance opportunities. As well as appearances at Development and Philharmonia Friends events, there is an end of year Showcase Concert at the Royal Festival Hall. In addition, if Fellows wish they can apply for further recital performance platforms (solo or as small chamber groups) in pre- or post-concert slots at our major residencies, including De Montfort Hall in Leicester, Three Choirs Festival and the Bedford Corn Exchange, incorporating the experience of putting together a proposal and programming ideas, along with a marketing plan and social media approach.

Condition of award

Successful recipients are asked to contribute to and sign a bespoke learning agreement to outline their commitment to the Fellowship Programme. The musicians are expected to participate in an evaluation process, to include completion of a brief progress report form at six-monthly intervals in order that the Philharmonia can ensure the Fellow is receiving the best experience possible.

Guidelines

We want to invest in talented instrumentalists who are pursuing an orchestral career. In order to be eligible for the Philharmonia MMSF Fellowship Programme, you must be able to demonstrate in your application an interest in an orchestral career, and some experience of working in an orchestral setting.

We want to support artists who have the potential to build a sustainable professional career and you will be asked to describe how the Philharmonia MMSF Fellowship Programme would make a significant difference to you at this point in your career or studies.

You should consider the impact the Fellowship would make to both your creative development and long-term career aims. The Harp Fellowship is a two-year scheme which means that places are only awarded every other year. The panel will review all submitted information and will be asked to consider:

- Your artistic achievements to date and the impact you are currently making in your studies and work
- The impact a Harp Fellowship would have for you as a prospective orchestral musician

We will accept applications from young undergraduates, but all applicants must be over 18 years old.
